

Affidavit

I, Emily Peyton to hereby affirm that the following statement is truthful.

I have conducted my health care with minimal interference from allopathic medical systems. I will use an emergency room for broken bones, however, I will not use it for mitigation of cancer or other serious diseases. This is because I have versed myself in natural effective care that serves my health needs far better. I have come to this position through numbers of experiences of betrayals by the health care system to me during my 60 plus years on this planet. I take no prescription drugs, and intend to keep it that way.

I am not alone. I refer you to some authors: Gary Null, Death By Medicine, Suzanne Somers, Knockout: Interviews with Doctors who are curing Cancer, Gwen Olson, Confessions of an Rx Salesmen. This is just a starting point for anyone wishing to understand my relationship with allopathic medicine.

I have been developing awareness as a candidate for Governor 10 years to specifically develop a public focus on the following beneficial policies:

- 1) A Public Bank of Vermont to stabilize our taxes and economy- as per North Dakota's financial stability due to their public bank.
- 2) Agricultural Hemp- Which was passed in 2013

I have done significant leg work for this, in DC and locally. I was primarily interested in a use for Ag hemp that the State has yet to promote: Building with Hemp and Lime, which produces wall systems that:

- Sequester 38 lbs of carbon per square foot
- Are non-toxic, hypoallergenic and mold proof (in light of our indoor air quality issues in VT)
- Regulate Humidity, and do not use a vapor barrier

- Are Fire Proof (yes)
 - Are recyclable (unused or removed wall material can be reused or put on the lawn as lyme). 40% of carbon pollution is from construction waste and issues.
 - A hempcrete (the name of the material although it contains no concrete) home will stand for centuries, further reducing waste.
 - A hempcrete home is pest proof and reduces exposure to harmful EMFs.
- 3) All organic in 5 years, a position supported by Roger Albee who sees the future of VT's small dairies is dependent on our niche market status.

My concern about the Covid plan compelled me from June of 2020 to do ground work and once again reach out to people across the state, as a candidate for governor, even though I hoped that chapter was over. I wanted to move onto building and designing homes in Hempcrete through our now next to defunct business, thanks to Scott et al, Hempfully Green Healing House.

I have had enough experience as an activist candidate to see that only the candidates that please the elite party status quo will ever be promoted by the press. Knowing that, my purpose was to speak to the eventuality of political pressure on the people for vaccinations.

I had not wished to 'run' again for office, eg travel throughout the state, but the circumstances of Covid gave me a sense of duty to do my best to speak to the need to uphold individual personal freedoms. After the primary, I intended to leave the field to others, however when David Zuckerberg who had once championed vaccine choice, sent a campaign card stating: Science matters, vaccines work. I knew there would be a need for my perspective.

Even though the press eliminated all efforts to cover campaigns that were not the selected status quo candidates and even the Public TV polls included all candidates but myself, there was a call to duty to speak out and reach out.

The public of Vermont would see my campaign as Truth Matters, and I helped numbers of Vermonters to connect with one another and to this day they have benefitted from the networking I helped them do.

In 2020, unlike other cycles, only one reporter interviewed me and wrote about my positions during the course of the campaign. That article was a mention among others, not a featured article. However, I was much happier this cycle with the lack of press. I was happier because the primary method that the press supports the status quo political scene is to mock, color and denigrate any alternative candidates, so the absence of public mockery in the 2020 cycle was pleasant.

In all past cycles the alternative candidate could: write letters to the papers, and the public would see the candidates position in their own words, and the candidate could, like others, comment on articles that were posted online, thus allowing for a small measure of exposure.

Once the 2020 lockdown began however, the press also locked down on public commentary, and refused all letters to the editor I sent in, even the front porch forum shut me out for opening a discussion on the merits of the lockdown, and the concerns about it.

I stayed on, as a republican, because of course, Vermont does not allow candidates to participate as independents in the primary. I consider myself an independent and I will give credit to any official where its due, and challenge that official where it is not. For example, I give Trump credit for not starting a number of wars, and for standing up to China, and stopping the TTP, but am not proud of his environmental policies except perhaps for the new independence from middle eastern oil, we would be in a war.

I have seen Vermont abuse the election system in a number of ways, changing vote counts for Cris Erickson in 2010. Cris Ericson is a “perennial candidate” another denigrating label, who ran as the marijuana party candidate and I believe still does. She showed me in 2010 how the Secretary of State had her with 6k+ votes on the unofficial count and the next day halved those votes to 3k +. They provided no reasonable explanation, only that her 6+k votes ‘were a mistake’. Cris does not have the means to pursue the matters. My experience is, like the Supreme Court in 2021, the Courts consider it moot, post election. Suffice it to say by the foregoing that election malfeasance is clear to me. This year, for example the state sent more ballots to my household than people were there to vote. Vermont issued more ballots than there were voters, earning them a spot on the judicial watch website. I also had to vote in full view of the Town clerk, who could clearly see I did not vote the top of the ballot. Gone were the privacy screens.

All this to say, why would I trust the State of Vermont?

I was proactive when Phil Scott said over the summer that he was considering information regarding the Covid 19 Vaccines, and that he needed more info. At that time Scott was already saying that the emergency would end when a vaccine was approved.

Incidentally operation Warp Speed was not in the public's best interest, instead the widespread distribution of known preventatives; ivermectin, hydroxychloroquine, lysine, nutrition, lowering of financial stress and other stressors, increasing relaxation, time in sunlight and nature, special care to protect elderly from sick persons, would be best.

I gave Scott the benefit of the possibility that he might actually want to see more information on vaccines before deciding whether to call for them as a condition of lifting the emergency. Remember that during the summer there were no deaths, as per a normal flu season, and that is exactly when he mandated a mask. Idiotic. Hindering oxygen. Criminal. For developing brains of the children. Creepy and criminal. The masks are for psychological suppression, not overall health. But that evidence is in the claims of our suit.

I sought those I had met through my campaigning and network who had information and expertise on vaccines, and contacted the Governor's office to request a meeting where he could get 'more info' on vaccines before making any decision, presumably.

I organized seven Vermonters who I knew could speak succinctly and specifically to the issue. We were willing to condense our points and speak on various aspects of the vaccine information (not repeating information), and we were willing to meet online, rather than in person. We agreed to be ready at the drop of hat- at any time of day or night that he could fit us in his busy schedule.

After a month or pursuit of a meeting his secretary informed me by email and confirmed on the phone that he would not meet with us. It was clarified then, to me, that his mind was made up. His goal was to vaccinate as if it were a finish line to cross in his race car. He was not interested in anything the public had to say or any warning against them, or alternatives.

Additionally I served a Statement of Truth to the Governor, with an implied contract to reply or accept as fact the statements herein. That was over 40 pages long. The Governor or his office never bothered to reply or refute the statements therein.

Because my “Truth Matters” signage contained more red than blue, everyone in my town of Putney, including all the democratic lawmakers, refuse to this day to return calls or emails or to talk with me, because they associated red with Trump and now with domestic insurrection. How patently idiotic. It’s is so false I do not know where to begin, especially since the trump supporters (and myself as well) fully support the work of good policing.

Here we are in March 2021, and Phill Scott has now mandated vaccines.

I am fleeing the state to retain my bodily autonomy. In fact as I write this affidavit, I should be calling the inspectors for a property I am under contract to buy. It is a multi family property and no fewer than 5 other Vermonters are eager to flee with me. I had once imagined I would live all my days here.

I am saddened that in the space of a year we will see so many people succumb to the actual outcomes of mRNA vaccines, that instead of protecting the people by triggering their immune systems, their immune systems will fold entirely making them much more ill when confronted with the wild virus. This situation was played out with animal trials of previous mRNA vaccines that the FDA could not, even in their limited level of morality, approve. I am certain that we will see huge numbers of deaths from all those who trusted Phil Scott, the CDC the press and took the vaccine.

The press has censored, YouTube has censored, Google has censored, FB twitter etc. have all censored all discussion and public attempts to arrive at the truth. Front Porch Forum has censored me and removed my account without recourse.

Now Phil Scott mandates the vaccine. It's no wonder that the state with the least deaths is the first to mandate it, and the State with the least deaths gets 5.4 billion dollars in federal aid, second only to NY, and its Emmy winning murderer, Cuomo.

I highly recommend the following book: Undercover Epidemic Nurse- by Erin Marie Olszewski, to witness through the author some of the egregious behaviors at Elmhurst in NY.

Who is Scott to play god in such a reckless manner ?

Not a man of God nor of truth.

If for no other reason, since the vaccine IS experimental, the need for an unvaccinated public control group to measure it efficacy is imperative for any sort of scientific review. He should allow for it .

I have seen enough of politics to know that the public servants' service is not for the good of all, but rather for the good of the corporation; yes, even here in VT. This is why I was always happy, even proud while concurrently publicly humiliated, to lose in such an environment. Today the stakes are so much higher.

I do reiterate the aforesaid is my whole truth and the complete Truth as I understand truth to be, before God. Please continue to help and guide me GOD, and help our country out of this hateful, deceitful mess.
